

The Case of the Ailing Robin and the Curious Woodpecker

Today's Quotation
Thou hast multiplied the nation, and not increased the joy; they joy before thee according to the joy in the harvest, and as men rejoice when they divide the spoil.
—Book of Isaiah

I was a sentimental observer of backyard drama yesterday.

Two families of robins have nested around my place for a number of years, the papas working the yard early and late — for mammals I never see. Until yesterday.

Yesterday evening I was putting up the sprinkler after a dubious effort to help some young bermuda through the June drought when I spotted what looked like an over-stuffed wren grounded by a heat stroke. But she resisted help and fluttered to the top of the fence. Only then did I notice that one of my robins was hovering anxiously overhead, and it dawned on me — this was the lady of the bird-house.

She certainly wasn't feeling good. Papa lighted on the fence beside her with a bug in his beak. It was supper-time, but she wasn't having any.

Papa chirped. But mamma made no reply.

They were joined on the fence by a red-headed woodpecker, something of an intruder, I thought. He didn't actually interfere, but he certainly looked the situation over and listened in on every robin word. I couldn't figure the red-headed woodpecker — whether he was a newspaper reporter keeping tabs on the bird community, the family doctor, or the preacher standing by for the wake.

I, being obviously no help, retired to the porch and knocked off a couple more chapters of James Bowie's adventures in "The Iron Mistress."

It was now dark, and curiosity about how the backyard drama ended brought me out with a flashlight. Its beam traveling down the top fence rail told me the place was empty.

Papa Robin finally got mamma safely home.

And the red-headed woodpecker — really no more curious than I — he was gone, too.

I snapped off the flash and went back to the porch and rejoined James Bowie in the stormy pages of "The Iron Mistress." That's one where I already know the ending — but the fictionalized version of Bowie's life is something like the drama in my own backyard: There are a couple of strange woodpeckers in the deal, and even though I know Bowie was killed at the Alamo I gotta keep reading until the fence is clear and all the birds are disposed of — one way or another.

VFW May Call for War on All China

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, may call for all out war on Red China.

The resolution for consideration at the department's annual encampment here urges President Truman to deliver an ultimatum for the release of all American nationals held prisoner by the Chinese.

If the Red Chinese leaders fail to comply within 30 days, the resolution says, Congress should declare war to subdue Red China by any means, "including the atomic bomb and the hydrogen bomb."

The resolution was one of several scheduled for action at today's afternoon session.

Other proposed resolutions would call for:

Deportation of known Communists.

Examination of textbooks to eliminate "all ideologicalisms."

Continuation of VFW efforts to obtain a universal military training law.

Restoration of 16,000 beds in the Veterans Administration hospital program, approved by Congress but eliminated by President Truman.

Opposition to VA changes recommended by the Hoover Commission.

Pardoned Slayer Loses Freedom Bid

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP) — Pardoned slayer Joel Carson apparently has lost his bid for freedom from Cummins State Prison Farm.

Lincoln Circuit Court Judge Henry Smith denied Carson's petition for a writ of habeas corpus yesterday, which — if granted — would have freed him from prison.

Carson contended that he was being held illegally since he had been pardoned by Gov. McMath earlier this year.

Carson received the death sentence in 1938 in connection with the death of Guard J. B. Keller at the State Hospital in Little Rock. The sentence was reduced to life imprisonment by the late Gov. Carl E. Bailey and subsequently dropped to 30 years.

While on a Christmas furlough from prison, Carson was arrested and convicted of two Ft. Smith liquor store robberies.

He was pardoned on the murder conviction this year and re-arrested in a North Little Rock fight last May 12. Prison officials rechecked his records and said he still must serve out the robbery sentences.

He was returned to prison.

It was from these sentences that Carson petitioned.

Governor's Race Gets in Full Swing Today

By The Associated Press

Today looks like the real starting point of all-out campaigning in the Arkansas governor's race.

Gov. McMath will officially open his bid for a third term with a rally at Pine Bluff. His four opponents for the Democratic nomination and Jeff Speck, the Republican nominee, all will appear at a homecoming celebration at Perryville. And some of the four Democrats will make talks elsewhere before or after the Perryville appearance.

By early next week all the Democratic candidates except McMath will be out on active speaking tours.

McMath will delay his stumping for a few days while he makes a hurried visit to the National Governors conference at Houston, Tex., and on Wednesday attend the dedication of the Norfolk and Bull Shoals dam, at which President Truman will speak.

Ike Murry was the latest to say he was ready to start an intensive speaking tour.

Murry will formally open his campaign at North Little Rock Monday night. He'll be last of the five to do so. He said that beginning Tuesday he would fill as many as 5 engagements daily until the 1st primary July 29, just one month from tomorrow. He said he would discuss "new issues that I will be prevented from including in my opening address."

Jack Holt and Francis Cherry had said previously they would start intensive campaigning next week. And Boyd Tackett has been at it for weeks.

McMath in a speech to a rural electric co-operative at Ozark yesterday declared that private power trusts were hampering Arkansas industrial expansion though their opposition to measures which would result in additional electric power for Arkansas. He said attacks against his administration had been led by unnamed individuals who have a selfish interest in strengthening the power monopoly in this state.

Tackett, in talks at five Western Arkansas points, said that he (Tackett) was responsible for highway improvements in Western Arkansas.

He said McMath had caused road construction in that section "in an effort to buy Tackett votes. If I hadn't entered the campaign, the administration wouldn't have considered the roads."

Infantrymen Throw Back Red Assaults

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations infantrymen today threw back three furious assaults by Chinese Reds on the Korean western front. Allied warplanes for the fourth time in a week bombed and strafed hydro-electric plants serving North Korea and Manchuria.

One Steel Mill, Union Sign Agreement

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The CIO United Steelworkers have signed an interim agreement which provides a 12½-cent hourly hike for 10,500 employees of the Pittsburgh Steel Company—a basic producer.

The agreement was personally negotiated yesterday by Philip Murray, president of the steelworkers. It provides a modified union shop and otherwise substantially follows recommendations made weeks ago by the Wage Stabilization Board in an effort to avoid a strike which now is in the 20th day.

Murray, himself, didn't comment after giving the green light to Pittsburgh Steel to immediately start plans for resumption of production. However, one of his associates — who asked not to be identified, said the agreement "is an important break in the solid front put up by the basic steel industry."

John A. Stephens, vice-president of U.S. Steel who has been a chief industry negotiator during the past few months, said he had no comment on the agreement. When asked if any negotiations are planned so on to end the strike, he said merely:

"We are ready to negotiate at any time."

Although no negotiations are planned with U.S. Steel or other companies making up the industry's big six, one of Murray's associates said he expected "more companies to fall in line soon." He said approximately 48,000 of the 650,000 men who struck June 2 now have been covered in interim agreements which have been signed since the strike began. Most of these are in smaller companies.

Companies which have signed include Detroit Steel Corp., and Kaiser Steel Company. A few days ago 12 companies in the Pittsburgh area, employing 9,000, signed pacts which followed the general pattern of the WSB recommendations.

The WSB recommended a union shop whereby all steelworkers must belong to Murray's union. Pittsburgh Steel's contract calls for a modified shop. New employees must join the union but can withdraw between their 20th and 30th day of work.

A Pittsburgh Steel spokesman said 90 per cent of his company's eligible employees already belong to the union "and therefore it was decided no practical purpose could be achieved by continuing the strike on the union shop issue."

The agreement, retroactive to April 1, provides six paid holidays, three weeks' vacation after 15 years instead of 25 years, an increase in shift differentials of from four to six cents an hour on the second shift and six to nine cents on the third shift.

PSC Rejects Gas Rate Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Power Commission has rejected the application of Texas Gas Transmission Corporation for an annual rate increase of 11 million dollars. Texas Gas wholesalers fuel to 34 other companies, including Mid-South Gas Company in Arkansas.

At Little Rock a MidSouth spokesman said that a rate increase for Texas Gas probably would make it necessary for MidSouth to seek a corresponding increase.

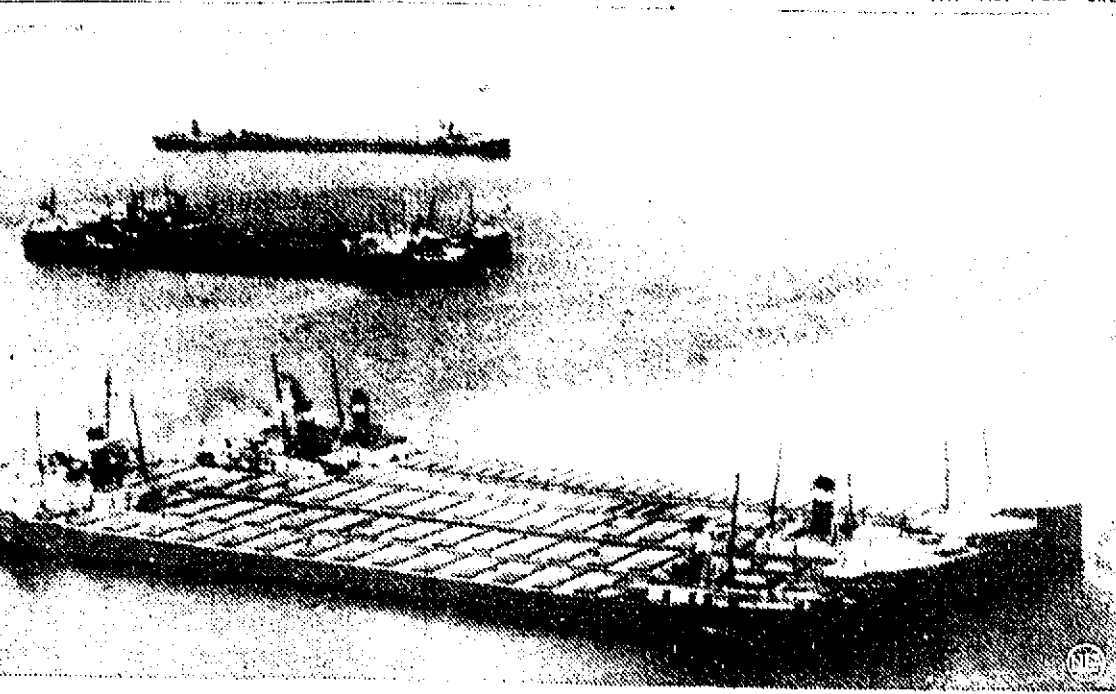

MidSouth distributes the Texas Gas in McGehee, Helena, Parkdale, Eudora, Lake Village and Dermott.

Youths Must Pay for Damaged Auto

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — Nine boys who engaged in what was termed a "gang fight" here this week must pay for automobile damages caused by the outbreak.

Municipal Judge H. B. Means Jr. fined the nine teenagers $27 each for malicious mischief and assault and battery yesterday. He said he would remove the fines if each of the boys pay $9 toward car repairs.

The defendants were arrested last Thursday. Police Chief Ed Bunk said the boys used fire tools, weapons and other weapons in the assault following a name-calling incident at a traffic light.

Navajo Indians Have Some Very Good Ideas - One Was Putting Bell on Your Mother - in - Law

By HAL BOYLE

DENVER (AP) — Having trouble with your mother-in-law?

Then take a tip from the Navajos: Put a silver bell on her. Then you'll hear her coming and you can get out of her way.

The Navajos started this peculiar custom hundreds of years ago because of a superstition that if a son-in-law and mother-in-law meet face to face unexpectedly both would go blind.

They had another rather unusual solution to this old family problem. If a young Indian bride knew a widow with an attractive daughter, she would first marry the widow, then the daughter and thus avoid having any mother-in-law trouble at all. All he had to deal with was two wives, Simple?

The Navajos, long impoverished on a vast, arid 16 million-acre reservation embracing parts of four western states, are America's largest Indian tribe. And instead of dying out they are increasing. They still weave rugs and cast silver jewelry for the tourist trade. But they have a new source of income today — mining uranium for the palefaces' atom bombs.

The Navajos are held in high regard out here and anthropologists think the white man well might adopt some aspects of their culture. They are a pretty well-adjusted people and some feel this is a result of their upbringing. Insanity is very rare among them. It is also said that no full-blooded Navajo stutters — an affliction which psychiatrists think arises from childhood insecurity.

"The Indians make the world's best parents," one man said. "They neither pamper nor punish their children. They let them learn for themselves and as a result an Indian boy is self-reliant at the age of 10."

If a child must be punished he isn't whipped. One of his parents simply throws water on him — a great disgrace.

The Navajos are among the cleanest of primitive peoples and love to take sweat baths followed by a plunge into cold water. In snow or dry sand, they roll before the virtues of chlorophyll were extolled over radio and television, these Indians had a way of removing body odors. They simply rubbed themselves under the arms with hot porous rocks provided by nature's free drugstore.

But although they are Spartan beyond belief, they are more docile-minded than the hypochochondric neotrons who dwell on Park Avenue in New York.

Some authorities estimate that tant meal of the day. The Navajos men is either a medicine man or studying to be one. One reason is that medicine men get high fees and their fees are always paid.

The other reason is that Navajos, while fearless of death, are greatly afraid of illness. They are also afraid of dead people and will abandon their home if a member of the family dies in it.

Cancer and diabetes are rare among them. Tuberculosis is common, however, because of their restricted diet.

Today many paleface doctors say breakfast is the most important meal of the day. The Navajos anticipated this view with an old proverb: "What you eat before noon makes you fat." They also prefer tough to lean meat, on the theory it must stay with a man longer because it takes longer to chew. Butchers haven't been able to sell this revolutionary idea in the white man's world but they are trying.

Navajos are so tough-bodied they formerly caught eagles bare-handed and captured deer by running them down on foot in relays. But if a rattlesnake crawls into their home, rather than kill him they will gently shoot him out, explaining carefully that he really doesn't live there. They believe in a "live-and-let-live" policy.

These Indians are noted for their domestic harmony and few have married geophiles. Their home is a one-room, dirt-floored dwelling called a hogan, made of logs covered with dirt. The square is boss indoors and she keeps it neat.

"The Navajos don't go in for divorce as a hobby but a wife is just as free to get one as her husband. Her method is to take her husband's saddle and other belongings and put them outside the hogan. If a husband wants a divorce, he just saddles up and rides away.

You can gather from this that lawyers don't do too well among the Navajos. The odd thing is that — with no laws to confuse them — most Navajos marry and live happily together ever after in their hogan-sweet-hogan on the range.

Extension of Controls Gets Committee Nod

By B. L. LIVINGSTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 10-month extension of wage-price controls, due to expire Monday, was voted by a Senate-House Conference Committee early today in a marathon session.

The compromise, hammered out of divergent bills passed by the Senate House, was whisked to the Senate's special Saturday session for action. House consideration is scheduled Monday.

Senate-House conferees met yesterday, last night and into today's pre-dawn hours. All in all, the results were accounted an administrative victory after the beating the bill took in the House.

The committee abandoned a House provision by Rep. Taft (R-Ohio) which would have been snipped.

Controls on commodities not rationed or allocated. Nothing is rationed now. Only a few scarce metals are allocated.

It also watered down another House provision, by Rep. Cole (R-Kan.), which would have guaranteed sellers' price markups based on individual, instead of industry-wide, profit margins before the Korean War erupted. The diluted version to retain a provision which existing law.

An administration setback, however, was the committee's decision to retain a provision which would exempt processed fruits and vegetables from price control.

All three had been roundly scored by administration forces.

House adoption of the Taft and Cole amendments led Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall to comment they pulled the rug from under controls, leaving him no recourse but to bow out.

Price officials said about 11 per cent of the housewife's food money goes for processed fruits and vegetables—frozen and otherwise—and knocking off controls for these would boost the grocery bill.

The compromise bill would all but scrap credit controls and would extend rental curbs Sept. 30 except where localities vote to continue them until April 30, 1953. Real estate credit checks would also end — with a proviso.

This qualification has to do with the Federal Reserve Board's Regulation X, the rule setting specific down-payment and installment minimums on new housing. Under the compromise, Regulation X would be idled as long as the annual rate of housing starts was below 1,200,000 about 100,000 more than now.

Instead of the House provision to snip controls from commodities not rationed or allocated, the conferees committee adopted a Senate-passed statement of policy. This favors ending wage-price checks within the controls law "as rapidly as possible." In the meantime, it says, ceilings should be lifted wherever wage and price pressures ease.

Kept in the bill were Senate and House requests to President Truman asking him to use the executive provision of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law to force the steel industry to resume production.

Taft Moves Vote Battle to Chicago

WASHINGTON (AP) Sen. Robert A. Taft prepared today to carry his fight for the Republican presidential nomination to Chicago, where he plans to see more state delegations early next week.

Taft leaves for the convention city Sunday night.

He made his last public appearance at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, where he conferred with members of the Virginia delegation and summarized his views on foreign policy in a major speech before the Institute of Public Affairs. Taft made three major points:

1. He believes economic aid to Western Europe should now be cut off.

2. The United States should repudiate the Yalta agreement.

3. A policy of "infiltration and propaganda," directed at the satellite Communist nations, should be undertaken immediately by this country.

The speech was the climax of a long and arduous day. In near-record heat, that Taft spent in Virginia. He held his regular morning news conference, then met with the 23-man Virginia delegation in a closed session, addressed the Taft club of Charlottesville in a luncheon speech and finally spoke to some 5,000 people at the university last night.

By The Associated Press

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, stepping up his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination, teed off on the Democrats as too long in power and jaded by "complacency, negligence and cynicism."

His speech before an audience of 11,000 in Denver's coliseum last night — radio-broadcast nationwide — was beamed especially at the nation's youth. They are sickened, he said, by "epidemic" corruption in high places but will meet moral issues of the campaign with idealism and energy.

Eisenhower said the United States had handled Russia too gingerly. Less softness, he said, might have prevented the Korean conflict and kept China and Balkan and Baltic states from slipping behind the Iron Curtain.

The speech came almost as an answer to statements earlier in the day by Eisenhower's chief rival for the GOP nomination, Ohio Sen. Robert Taft.

"I am afraid," Taft told a Washington, D. C., news conference, "that Eisenhower's backers would urge him to conduct the kind of campaign that Dewey conducted."

New York Gov. Thomas Dewey's loss to President Truman in 1948 has been blamed on "me-too" tactics which lacked fight. Dewey is working now for Eisenhower's nomination at the GOP's July 7 convention at Chicago.

Taft's campaign mgr., David Ingalls, said yesterday his man just about has the nomination sewed up anyway. In a statement he credited Taft with all but three of the 604 delegate votes needed to win.

The Associated Press tabulation — based on statements of avowed and conceded alignments for the first ballot — shows Taft has 482 to Eisenhower's 404, with 120 for others and 101 uncommitted or disputed.

In the Democratic race — the convention at Chicago comes two weeks after the GOP's — there was talk of a stop-Harriman road block being fashioned by Southerners.

According to the report, some backers of Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia have been sounding out the forces of other candidates for Democratic presidential nomination. The idea: hold the line against Mutual Security Administrator Averell Harriman if he should suddenly get the support of President Truman.

Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson generally is conceded the inside track with Truman. The governor, who had been saying he only wants to be re-elected, now evinces a walk-and-be-nominated attitude.

Harriman — like Russell and Tennessee Sen. Estes Kefauver — has been rambling the country in search of convention backing. The Associated Press tally now shows Kefauver leading with 245½, Russell has 124, Harriman 88½, Stevenson 50½, others 268½ and 300 are uncommitted or in dispute. It takes 616 of the 1,200 Democratic delegates — not yet all selected — to be nominated.

Russell and Sen. Robert A. Taft, Oklahoma were making a week-end tour of the Colorado River today for Colorado River water rights.

Headon Crash Also Leaves Three Injured

POCAHONTAS, Ark. (AP) — Seven people, including two babies and three women, were killed near here early today in a head-on collision of two cars on Highway 67. Three others were seriously injured.

Coroner Gardner McNabb said the bodies "were so mangled" that officers and hospital authorities were having difficulty identifying the people.

McNabb said Joe Cooper of St. Louis, Mrs. J. D. Davis, believed of St. Louis and a small baby — all riding in the same car — were killed.

He said James E. Bynum, two women and a baby, occupants of the second car, also were killed. Injured were:

Laverne Keys Cooper, Cooper's bride of only a few hours.

J. D. Davis, St. Louis.

A 2-year-old boy, his identity not known.

The injured were taken to Randolph County Hospital here.

The accident occurred about five miles north of here about 6:30 this morning.

McNabb told a reporter that the car in which Bynum was riding was headed south and the Cooper car, north.

He said it was believed one of the cars went off the highway and in an attempt to right itself, collided with the second automobile.

Negro Farmers Study Current Problems

"This Fruit and Truck Branch Station was established to study the problems peculiar to southwestern Arkansas, which are your problems," Associate Dwight Isely of the University of Arkansas Agricultural Experiment Station told about 400 visitors at the annual study day for Negro farm families, here, this afternoon.

"We are attempting to study the crops and varieties adapted to your soil and weather, and to consider such things as the time of maturity in relation to drought and to having the crops reach the market at a time when they will command the highest prices."

Director Isely pointed out, however, that although the horticultural crops are an important source of cash income on small, family-sized farms, it is in the state's home gardens that vegetables and fruits of greatest importance. "The value of food produced in home gardens in the state has been estimated at 30 million dollars. However, how can you measure the value of the variety of food on your table? How much money is it worth to have your family well fed?"

During the morning, the visitors had a chance to learn how they could increase their production of vegetables and fruits through use of better varieties, fertilization, irrigation, and other improved production practices. That part of the program was a repetition of Friday's with demonstrations on tomatoes and watermelons, pastures, sweet potatoes, apples, mental irrigation, forestry, and peaches. Also repeated were the demonstrations on farm safety, landscaping, and use of electricity on the farm.

Farm men and women from Arkansas counties and ones from Louisiana visited the station during the two-day event. Cash Bittle, the station's assistant rector, reported.
